An inquiry was made to this office concerning Sky Blue Chems "Oil Spill Eater." Specifically, we were asked to assess whether or not the use of this product would pose any health concerns by reason of the properties of the constituents.

Upon review of the material safety data sheet and other documents, we see no special toxicological concern with the ingredients that would pose a significant health concern with its application as described.

We would appreciate knowing in advance of any field tests or uses of this product.

Sincerely,

Dennis L. Smythe
Chief of Compliance
